Introduction & Philosophy of Nursing

The word “Nursing” draws its essence from the Noble mission initiated by “FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE” who set forth the path for the professional needs. The necessity of educated trained professionals who could be competent enough to handle and take care of the sick and ailing members of the society. The aim of the mission is to train nursing professionals with high standards and spirit of devotion and human touch. A sick person is more than 50% cured if he or she is handled with responsive care.

The Nursing is a science and art, which requires a sound scientific education. Besides this, nursing is a service to humanity, is devoted as it helps curing the patients by applying scientific knowledge and skill during their studies.

A Professional nurse is a graduate of a recognized Nursing College, who has registered with State Nursing Council, which is a licence to practice.

Nursing is a systematic deliberate process directed towards assisting individuals and groups in promoting maintaining and restoring maximum health potential and supporting the dignity of the individual in life. This process is based upon the combination of scientific knowledge and skills that consists of action that is independent but co-ordinated with other health care programmes.

Concept of Nursing is based on Indian Nursing Council's definition “the unique function of the Nurse, which is to assist the individual, sick or well, in the performance of those activities contributing to health or its recovery”.

The staff of Nursing college believe that the basic course in Nursing must necessarily be laid on sound medical & scientific foundations. Further the faculty of nursing college believes :

- (a) That learning occurs not only in classroom, but in the peer groups and through participation in a wide variety of extra-curricular activities in different fields.
- (b) That Nursing is a profession, which influenced by advances in Science and Technology.
- (c) That skills in all aspects of communication is essential for learning and for the practice of nursing.
- (d) That the nature of nursing education is such that substantial portion of student's learning is acquired in clinical area.
- (e) That interdependent of Nursing with allied profession and occupations are necessary for promoting, maintaining and restoring health.
- (f) That the new persons entering in pioneering profession must be guided for their brilliant career in nursing so that they may prove efficient in imparting services to the society.
